

Race Riots in Chicago Leave 35 Injured

CHICAGO (AP) — Two hundred policemen patrolled Chicago's far southeast corner today to prevent recurrence of racial disturbances which injured at least 35 persons Sunday.

The flareups reached pitched battle stage Sunday afternoon in crowded Calumet Park, and last night at 108th St. and Ewing Ave. There were several instances of isolated attacks by roving gangs who stoned cars of Negroes and policemen.

Negroes retaliated in the disorders. No new incidents were reported today. Capt. Albert Anderson, supervisor of the second police division said the movement of area residents of the mixed, predominantly white neighborhood to their jobs in the industrial district went smoothly.

Five hundred policemen went on emergency duty status. Anderson said that the emergency police details would be doubled this afternoon when day shift workers leave their jobs.

The affected area contains less than four square miles, including Calumet Park, and lies between the Indiana state line and the Calumet River at Chicago's south end.

The first disturbance occurred at Calumet Park, where some 100 Negroes were holding a picnic. Police said a group of between 50 and 60 white persons began throwing stones at the Negroes. About 25 persons, most of them Negroes, were injured, none seriously. Some 100 policemen answered the riot call and quelled the fighting.

Police estimated that some 3,000 persons witnessed the brawl but there were several other thousands in the big park seeking relief from the 90-degree temperatures.

Some 300 policemen, both white and Negro, were on duty in the south Chicago and East Side districts last night as fresh rioting erupted. The districts, in the city's far southeast industrial section, are predominantly white.

Sultan's Men Closing on Oman Rebels

By TOM MASERSON

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — An Omani communiqué said today troops of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman and loyal tribesmen are closing in on Oman rebels.

The communiqué issued in Muscat by a spokesman for Sultan Said bin Taimur, was released here by a British foreign office spokesman. It said:

"Some tribes are now moving with the support of the Sultan's forces to surround the rebels in mountain places in central Oman."

"Political and military action is now in preparation and will have rapid results which will bring the whole affair to an end."

The rebels hold an area roughly 25 or 15 miles and it has been described as almost entirely rugged mountains.

The rebels, led by Imam Chaleb bin Ali, who recently returned from Saudi Arabia, began the revolt 11 days ago in an attempt to set up an independent sultanate in Oman. British officials and the Sultan have accused Saudi Arabia of giving the rebels modern military weapons.

The chief British political officer for the Persian Gulf area said earlier the rebels had lost their momentum and were bottled up in an area centered on Niwa.

Sir Bernard Burrows said yesterday the rebels are down to about 200 men, plus one large tribe in the most inaccessible part of the rugged Oman mountains.

Burrows warned, however, against optimism that the rebellion against the Sultan of Muscat and Oman is about over.

Hot and Humid in Most U. S. Sections

Hot and humid weather, with showers and thunderstorms, was the outlook for broad sections of the country today.

No general rain was in sight for the drought-stricken sections in the Northeast, where damage to crops was estimated in the millions.

Showers and thunderstorms continued during the night in the mid-Mississippi Valley with heavy rainfall in southeast Iowa and northeast Missouri. Falls measured nearly 2 inches in 2 hours in Knoxville, Iowa.

In the belt of showers yesterday along the Atlantic coastal plains, there was some clearing during the night. However, thunder showers sprinkled areas in Florida, the eastern Gulf Coast and parts of New England.

405 Missing, 591 Jap Bodies Are Recovered

TOKYO (AP) — Some 40,000 rescue workers today sought 405 persons still missing four days after heavy rains flooded wide areas of western Kyushu.

National police reported 891 bodies have been recovered so far. Police also reported 3,681 injured in one of the worst flood disasters in recent years on the southern Japanese island of Kyushu.

The latest police count listed 152,231 homeless and 75,458 houses flooded.

Twelve more inches of rain fell on southern Kyushu yesterday, flooding more than 8,000 houses.

Mexico Quake Toll 42; Damage Reaches Millions

By CHARLES H. CUPTILL

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Soldiers blocked off many of this capital's major streets today as demolition squads began tearing down buildings dangerously damaged by earthquake.

Sunday's quake, the worst in the memory of Mexicans, rocked thousands of square miles and caused damage of millions of dollars but took a surprisingly low death toll.

Here and in other five cities 42 were known dead. No U. S. citizens were among them.

A young mother was rescued alive from beneath seven feet of crumbled debris of a five-story apartment building at Concepcion today. Mrs. Osio de Anguilar, 25, was saved by the mattress under which she was found 23 hours after the quake. Her husband, 10-month-old daughter, and her father lost their lives.

Despite forecasts that further tremors might be expected, none was registered during last night. Thirty tremors were registered yesterday after the main shock.

At least 50 buildings were toppled in the capital. The capital, with its population of four million, was hardest hit. The state of Guerrero, with famed Acapulco and its capital of Chilpancingo, was next.

Thirty-two bodies were dug out of ruins in the capital, 6 in Chihuahua, 2 in Acapulco, 1 in Atlatlan, and 1 in Humantlan.

President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines ordered emergency relief aid for the stricken areas. But schools resumed as usual.

The President's office said the governor and chief of the military zone of the southwest state of Michoacan denied reports there were any dead in that area. An earlier report had said there were 72 dead in that state.

The casualty reports were believed fairly complete, but authorities pointed out that remote areas might still be heard from.

The only foreigner reported injured was a woman tourist from Brooklyn, Mrs. Sarah Dorfman. She suffered cuts on the arm from broken glass in her hotel room.

The quake hit this capital of four million at 2:40 a. m. yesterday, seismograph needles spinning.

The city was plunged into darkness. Fire engines and ambulances screamed through the rubble-strewn streets. Communications with the shock areas west of the city were cut off and the glided symbol of Mexican independence — a winged angel — crashed down from its 155-foot base.

The National Seismographic observatory said instruments indicated the resort town of Acapulco, 215 miles south of the capital, had borne the brunt of the shock.

Quatemala Reds Create Unrest

GUATEMALA (AP) — The minister of defense has warned that Communists are spreading rumors in an effort to create unrest after the assassination of President Carlos Castillo Armas.

Col. Francisco Oliva, virtual ruler of the country during a 30-day state of siege declared after Castillo Armas was shot down Friday night, called yesterday for citizens to report any Red activity.

The Army reported the country calm and warned it would "repress drastically any subversive outbreak."

A government spokesman said several "suspected accomplices" had been arrested for questioning about the assassination by a palace guard whom officials identified as a militant Communist.

Presidential press chief Roberto Castaneda said the killing was "not an isolated case."

Castillo Armas was succeeded by the 56-year-old first vice president, Luis Arturo Gonzalez Lopez. Congress went in a body to see the temporary President, who told it the country and the world were satisfied with the way constitutional processes were working.

The five political parties, all pro-government, pledged their support to the army and ratified Gonzales' assumption of office.

Student Willing to Take a Guide

ROGERS, Ark. — A blind Fulbright scholar, said yesterday he is "willing to try" the British plan for a personal guide while his seeing-eye dog is kept in quarantine.

"I've never been dependent on a person before," duty said.

British authorities had refused to make an exception to their 6-month quarantine provision for dogs. Duty had said he would not go overseas without his dog, Binny.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) and U.S. Ambassador John H. Whitney negotiated with the British, who came up with a personal guide plan which also would permit Duty to visit his quarantined dog.

"I think their offer is very generous," Duty said. "But I'm a little disappointed."

Duty said he needs more details on the British plan. He said he is scheduled to sail for England Sept. 3 to study international law at the University of London.

Faubus Still Reluctant to Transfer Fund

By RYCE B. MILLER

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today it appeared $3,000,000 in a reserve fund cannot be transferred out to solve the problem of the financially crippled Highway Department.

The Governor was back at work today, sunbathed and looking fit after a week of fishing in northern Arkansas on doctors' orders.

He also told reporters he planned to appoint the final three members of the state sovereignty commission this week.

Immediately after arriving at the capitol, Faubus went into a conference with fiscal expert Frank Storey, secretary of the state Board of Finance, and Neil Bollinger, attorney for the Highway Commission.

Faubus said only that the conference concerned the Highway Department. He added that "indications" from his advisors were "adverse" concerning the transfer of funds from a highway reserve account used the refund highway bonded debts into the Highway Department's construction fund.

He said that a special session of the legislature still might be a solution, but he has reached no decision of any kind.

Attorney General Bruce Bennett delivered an opinion recently that the highway reserve fund can be tapped without a special session to get the highway department through the next several months until more revenue becomes available.

Faubus said that it might or might not take a court suit to determine the answer.

"Everyone realizes that the attorney general is not the last word in law," the Governor said. "I don't mean that as a reflection on anyone."

Big 3 to Protect Germany in Any Arms Agreement

BERTLIN (AP) — The United States, Britain and France pledged today they will not sign any disarmament agreement that would "prejudice the reunification of Germany."

A declaration signed by the ambassadors of the Western Big Three and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano stated that Germany can be reunified only after free election are held in both parts of the country split by the Iron Curtain.

The declaration was made just seven weeks before the crucial West German parliamentary elections Sept. 15. In the campaign the opposite Socialists have charged that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is ruining any chance of Soviet agreement to reunification by keeping West Germany in the North Atlantic Alliance.

The declaration rejected any idea of imposed neutrality or demilitarization for a reunified Germany. It promised that the reunified country would be free to German people, "through their decide its own military policy."

It said it would be up to the freely elected government "to decide whether their reborn nation should join the North Atlantic Alliance."

The Western powers, promised that if a reunified Germany should plump for the Western alliance, they would offer the Soviet Union a European security pact "of significant and far-reaching character."

The West has rejected previous Soviet proposals for an all-European security pact, contending unworkable unless preceded by that this would be unrealistic and settlements of such major East-West issues as the division of Germany.

STAMPEDE AT BLUE SPRINGS

THE STORY: Pike Ambrose goes to a town meeting to learn what action is being taken to replace Marshal McNeely, who resigned. At the meeting Pike sees Si Hanna, a gun fighter. Then Pike is chased from the meeting by Lars Paul.

CHAPTER XIII

It wasn't long before the thumping came on the stairs. I recognized the voice of Lars Paul. I stuck my head around the building, planning to take a quick look and then pull back. Peterson, Paul, and the four others stood on the boardwalk. One of the others was Si Hanna and the light in the street made a bright mark on the marshal's star on his shirt.

I headed toward the railroad, running hard. I kept on to the hotel and ran up the steps and stood over Blanchard and tried to suck enough breath to talk.

"What is it, Pike?"

"The marshal..." At the meeting, Peterson picked Si Hanna. Si's the marshal!

"Blanchard..." "Who's Si Hanna?"

I told Blanchard about Si Hanna and about the meeting. When I'd finished, he said, "Maybe you'd better go down to the saloon."

"I'll just pitch me out."

"If I go, the new marshal will have to show what he can do. Then they'll be in the fire."

I headed for the saloon. I knew we had to keep track of Si Hanna. I could see where things might come to a head fast, too fast. If Blanchard went down there now, with Si probably just itching to prove what he could do with a gun.

At Carey's place the air was thick with smoke and noise and the room was crowded. I was glad about that. I thought that if Lars tried to throw me out this time, maybe I'd just stand my ground, blacksmith or no.

I pushed in. I looked it over fast and headed for a corner table. The crowd was thickest by the long bar. There stood most of the men who'd been at the meeting.

I heard the squeaky voice of Si Hanna. I couldn't see him in the crowd, small as he was. He'd be at the center of things, enjoying it. Outside of that bunch there was the usual collection of drunks and others with nothing better to do than make Carey rich. Lars Mack and Carey were behind the bar and busy. It began to look like I wouldn't be bothered. The Laners Paul spotted me.

"Hey! There's that kid again! Everybody turned and looked. I was on my feet and heading for the door by the time he started for me. Then I stopped and turned back and breaced. I decided he'd have to throw me out, if he could. Lars was four steps away when a voice cut slurr through the smoke from the far end of the bar.

"Let him be, Lars."

Lars stopped. I looked for the one who said it. It was Eric Clement. Big Dan stood by. I had a strong notion to run again. I hadn't figured on the Clements.

Eric, grinning, walked toward me, waving a big glass half full of whiskey. He stood between me and the main bunch. Lars just looked at him.

"Let him be," Eric said. "Maybe he'll go back to his friend, tell him we got a man, now who'll take care of this town. Will you do that, Pike, boy?"

"I sure will," I said, adding toward the door.

"Wait a minute. You want to stay here some more?"

I stopped. I couldn't go at what Eric had in mind. He wasn't acting right at all. He turned away and motioned with his head to Si Hanna and Si moved out of the bunch. The star on his shirt looked might big for such a small man. There was the start of a smile on his face but it didn't do much to cut the pinched, mean look.

Eric grinned at me. "Meet the marshal, Pike. Si, you tell Pike here what you plan to do to his friend."

Si frowned. He looked at Jordan Peterson sitting at a near table. Peterson got up.

"Now see here, Eric," Peterson said. "We've got to let Si do his own way."

Eric just stared at Peterson. Then Eric turned slow to Si. Eric said, "Marshal, I suppose you'll want to think about it a little. A man just don't want to tackle Blanchard without thinking about it some."

Si looked at Peterson. Peterson's face was red. He knew what Eric was trying to do and didn't like the actual slaying. Last week a Cuyahoga County, Ohio, coroner came here to question Welder and later said the 23-year-old convict's story was a hoax.

Koloflias came here unannounced by bus. He had a telegram in his pocket from Dr. Stephen Sheppard, Dr. Sam's brother, which was to identify him to Sheriff Rodney Thursty in case he could not make contact in Florida with Corrigan and Garmore.

The telegram indicated that the Sheppard family sponsored Koloflias' trip here. Only a week ago Corrigan announced that he was not interested in Koloflias' identity.

It much but he couldn't stop it. Si's eyes narrowed and his lips worked a little. A chair shifted and then it was quiet as death. After a long time Eric broke the quiet.

"All right, Pike. You get out. Si doesn't have anything to say."

Si turned fast. He said to my face, "You tell that unknown marshal to get out of Blue Springs in 15 minutes or I'm comin' after him!"

"Stop it!" barked Peterson. It was too late. Hanna stood there shaking mad, scared, excited, his hands resting on his gun butts, his eyes slits of hate in his dark face.

Eric slapped Si on the back. Somebody yelled, "Go get him, Si!"

Eric said, "Pike, go tell your marshal he's coming here. Tell him Si Hanna said so."

Si stared at me with all the meanness in the world. I pushed through the doors and ran toward the hotel. I started yelling before I got to the hotel steps.

"Harney! Harney! Si Hanna's coming! Si Hanna's coming!"

Blanchard got to his feet. I felt his strong grip on my shoulders. "What do we want?"

"He plans to run you, Eric pushed him to the door."

I Like You Club Really Gets Rolling

DENVER — It's only four days old but the I Like You Club, started by a 7-year-old blonde from Illinois, is really rolling.

Colorado's Gov. Steve McNichols is a member. The founder, Kay Cash of Burnt Prairie, Ill., signed him up on a visit to Denver over the weekend.

Kay started the club last week a summer student at the University of Colorado.

"The purpose is to make friends," Kay said. "The rules are: Like each other, keep your card, don't lie and don't come to meetings if you are sick."

"To like each other is the most important."

The club came into being when Kay began passing out slips of paper on which she had written in crayon "I like you. Join my club."

Kay's father, Seaton Cash, a Burnt Prairie, Ill., garage man, is studying summer courses at Colorado State University at Fort Collins.

This fall Kay will attend school at Urbana, Ill., while her mother goes to the University of Illinois.

"I'll start a club at the university and one at school," Kay said. "Pretty soon everybody'll like everybody."

ification of Wedder.

Corrigan drove to Florida by car, arriving with Mrs. Corrigan yesterday. Garmore has been here since Saturday.

Sheriff Thursty said he had no objections to Corrigan, Garmore and Koloflias seeing Welder in jail here. However, he said before they go up to his cell he would ask Wedder if he objected.

After all, the prisoner has certain rights also," the sheriff said. Koloflias said he hitchhiked out of Cleveland on July 4, 1954, the night of the murder and was picked up by a "nervous" man with blood on his hands.

While in Waterloo, Iowa, last week he was shown two United Press telephoto pictures of Wedder. He immediately said, "That's the man."

Dulles Will Try to Unstall Disarms Talks

By RONALD THOMSON

LONDON — Secretary of State Dulles was flying to London today to take a personal hand in the stalled five-power disarmament talks at President Eisenhower's request.

One prime purpose of the trip reportedly was to work out a precise "open skies" plan for Europe which the European allies would support.

Dulles will confer with Harold E. Stassen, chief U. S. delegate to the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee, and with Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

British newspapers described the secretary's visit as a "major event in international affairs" and expressed hope it would provide a turning point in the long efforts to end the East-West arms race.

Officials in Washington said what Dulles learns in his consultations may decide whether the disarmament talks should continue or recess.

The U. S. diplomat and his aides came here from talks with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of Canada, one of the participating nations in the subcommittee talks.

Dulles was reported to have received Canada's support for U. S. proposal for mutual aerial inspection of arctic zones in Canada and Soviet Russia as one phase of a first-stage disarmament agreement.

Dulles' arrival coincided with presentation at the five-power talks of U. S. proposals for implementing Eisenhower's plan for aerial inspection zones on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

The open skies plan calls for a check on whether any arms reduction or control agreement is being faithfully carried out.

One report said Dulles may make a flying trip to Paris to confer with the North Atlantic Treaty Council on the open skies issues.

Stassen would present whatever detailed plan emerges from the Dulles talks to the Russian delegation. The Soviets then are expected

Youth Held in Slaying of Two Boys

BROCKTON, Mass. — A 20-year-old, pasty-faced ex-convict, released only seven weeks ago from a reformatory, was held on a murder charge today in the brutal woodland stabbing of two young brothers last Friday.

Raymond F. Ohlson, slightly built and wearing sideburns, was accused of slaying John Logan, 12, and his brother Edward, 11, after allegedly marching them at knife-point into the woods from a public pond.

The bodies of the brothers, who lived in nearby Stoughton, were found Saturday—nude and partially charred—under a smoldering blanket of twigs on branches.

Police Chief Joseph C. Wright, who took part in 30 hours of questioning of Ohlson, said the youth made no formal statement but related he forced the boys, whom he did not know, at knife-point to the spot where their bodies were found.

Police said keys found under the bodies led to Ohlson's arrest. One of them fitted his front door.

Another clue, Wright said, was the similarity of the crime to an attack on a 12-year-old boy in the same park six years ago. Ohlson was sentenced to Concord Reformatory then for assault with intent to murder.

When police took Ohlson into custody early yesterday at his home, they said they found a Mexican hunting knife with an eight-inch blade under his pillow. It was sent to police laboratories for analysis.

Police quoted Ohlson as saying he removed the boy's swim trunks and hid them in bushes behind a billboard a short distance from his home. He led officers to the spot and the trunks were found.

Police said that after the slaying Ohlson kept an appointment with his mother downtown and Friday evening took a young girl to the movies.

An autopsy showed that each of the boys suffered five knife wounds in the stomach.

The number of students enrolled in higher education in the United States has increased from 50,000 in 1870 to more than 3 million in 1957.

In the last 150 years, treasure hunters have spent about 1 1/2 million dollars seeking gold and jewels reported to have been buried off Oak Island in Mahone Bay, Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Berry is known far and wide for her love of flowers and for her interest in gardening. Besides her college training and a background of teaching experience Mrs. Berry has had courses from the Pennsylvania State College of Agriculture. She has had clinics and lecture work under J. Gregory Conway, Mrs. Robert Ash, John Taylor Arms, Victor Ries, Dr. R. C. Allen, Mrs. C. E. Cyphers and Paul Fries.

Mrs. Murphy has studied with the leading flower arrangers in the country and has taught in numerous National Council Flower Show Schools. Her flower arrangements have been pictured in the following flower arrangement books: Dorothy Biddle's "New Flower Arrangements for Everyone"; Helen Van Pelt Neilson's "Flower Arrangement Calendar"; "Arkansas Gardner Arrangement Calendar"; and "Flowers and Vegetable Arrangements" by Emma Cyphers.

For the benefit of those garden club members, who wish to become accredited flower show judges, the Texarkana Council of Garden Clubs plans to continue these National Council Flower Show Schools until the entire course of five schools is covered. Not all who attend the schools do so for credit or aspire to be judges. Some attend merely to gain information for growing and showing their plant material and to learn the Art of Flower Arrangement.

The Handbook for Flower Shows is the official textbook for all five courses. The required reading for School No. 1, is as follows: "Woman's Home Companion Book," John Wister; "Complete Book of Flower Arrangement," Rockwell and Grayson; "Japanese Flower Arrangement," "The Care and Feeding of Garden Plants," The American Society of Horticulture Science, The National Fertilizer Association.

Garden Clubs or members desiring to obtain these books for summer reading may do so by writing the Arkansas Federation State Library, 1110 West Capitol Avenue, Little Rock, where they are for lending. Those wishing to purchase the books may obtain them at a 10% discount, by ordering them through the Texarkana Council, by calling either Mrs. H. W. Newbold, who is chairman for the school, or Mrs. Roy S. Powell, who is co-chairman.

Arkenson Falls in River, Drowns

MEMPHIS (AP) — A Forrest City, Ark., man drowned in the Wolf River early yesterday after falling from a docked barge, possibly while walking in his sleep.

The body of Joe Elmer Peevey, 38, was found about 10 feet upstream from where he went over the side.

Peevey suddenly arose and then stepped or fell over the side, Garavellie said.

Several men rushed to the side of the boat. They said Peevey never came up from the water.

Slavs Have a Possible New 'Marilyn'

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Meet Tania Vella — the Iron Curtain's answer to Marilyn Monroe. Tania, a 22-year-old brown-eyed blonde beauty, is only two years removed from Marshal Tito's Yugoslavia.

Endowed with all the physical assets that made Monroe famous, Tania makes a statement that could send every red-blooded American male to that Iron Curtain country.

"In Yugoslavia," she insists, "I was considered very ugly."

Of course that was a few years ago, when she was a railroad section hand.

"It's very difficult for a girl to be pretty while swinging a pick and shovel," she admits.

She soon decided that there were easier ways of making a living. So, in a manner of speaking, she swam her way to America.

"In Yugoslavia, the national heroes are the athletes — so I became a swimmer," she said.

She became so proficient at the aquatic sport that she made the 1932 Yugoslav Olympic team.

"The team did not go to the Helsinki games," she said, "because once before another similar team left the country and didn't return."

However, the team did go to Austria in 1935. The rest of the team returned home — but not Tania.

She was able to get to the American zone and convince officials there that she was a political immigrant. An aunt who already lived in the United States helped her get to this country.

Tania, who had been an actress in her native country, made her living around New York singing in night clubs. She came to Hollywood only two months ago and looked up a magazine photographer named Eddie Rocco.

Rocco became her business agent and took her to Warners.

DOROTHY DIX

Husband-Hopping Can Get You in Trouble

Dear Dorothy Dix: I was brought up in a home ruled tyrannically by my father. At one time I was deeply in love with a wonderful man, but dad disapproved. We parted. Finally I married a much older man just to get away from home.

I discovered I had traded one tyrant for another. In fact, I was worse off. My father has money, my husband has none. I've worked since our marriage.

Meanwhile I've met the man I once loved again. He's established in business, has never married and dates aimlessly. I'm thinking of asking my husband to divorce me and try to re-establish things with my former sweetheart. Even if you advise that I forget him, I plan to write and give a full explanation of my family's interference.

Dear Terry: Your letter sounds as if your planned divorce depends entirely upon whether or not your former sweetheart is still interested in you. If this is the case, forget the whole idea and try to make the best of your marriage.

Don't approach marriage with the idea of staying with one husband until you can find a better one. This course of action can only lead to misery.

If a divorce had been effected or definitely decided upon before you learned that this man was still free, re-establishing contact might have been worth while. However, as things stand, put him out of your mind until you have worked out a satisfactory solution to your present marriage.

Don't write explanations to him at this late date. You could create an extremely embarrassing situation.

Dear Dorothy Dix: For 44 years I've been married to a man who won't work. In order for us to eat, I have always had to work while my husband loafed. Isn't there some social service to help me? I think he's a mental case.

Dear Gladys: What would you expect any agency to do for you at this late date, and what has delayed you? Forty-four weeks of supporting a husband should have given a hint of what lay in store. A man can figure so many excuses to avoid work isn't a mental case. Just a case of retarded ambition and laziness.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm an average girl of 17, pretty, etc. I have one fault. I want attention where ever I go. If my friends don't concentrate on me enough, I shout and get loud. Then I get attention.

Dear Joy: If your friends read this, they'll know how to stop your antics. Just pay no attention. In fact, you have probably already noticed people doing a disappearing act as you come to view. When you're left alone with your shouts and screams, you'll stop.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm in love with a married man — who lives out of town. I've written him quite a few letters, but have received no response. Could it be that someone else is getting his mail?

Dear Mystified: Could be, but it's more likely that the gentleman receives your letters and files them in the incinerator — where they belong. Save postage! stop writing.

Most men speak when they do not know how to be silent. He is wise who knows when to hold his peace. Tie your tongue, lest it be wanton and insatiable. Keep it within the banks; a rapidly flowing river soon collects mud. — Ambrose said it.

Cards Take Pair, Thanks to McDaniel's One-Hitter

By FRED DOWN

United Press Sports Writer
Von McDaniel added the season's most spectacular pitching performance to his amazing achievements today while the St. Louis Cardinals added an edge in the vital "lost column" to their reasons for believing they'll come out on top in the National League's fantastic five-team race.

The 18-year old Von, who signed a $50,000 bonus contract, only six weeks ago, pitched a one-hitter yesterday as the Cardinals whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-0 and 9-8. George Baker's second-inning double was the blow that deprived McDaniel of the first perfect game in modern national league history as he fanned four and did not permit another runner to reach base.

The sweep enabled the Cardinals to move within three percentage points of the first-place Milwaukee Braves, two split with the New York Giants, and left them with a 55-40 won-lost record. They have a one-game edge in the lost column on both the Braves and third-place Brooklyn Dodgers and a two-game edge in the same column on the Cincinnati Redlegs and Philadelphia Phillies.

McDaniel's victory was his fifth against two losses and his second shutout. His four previous wins have yielded only 38 hits in 57 innings while compiling a 2.68 earned-run average. His strikeouts outnumbered his walks (supposedly because of young pitchers), 20-15.

The boy was all the Cardinals required in the opener but they needed the combined efforts of three men to win the nightcap. Eddie Kasko doubled to cap a three-run ninth-inning rally that led the score, Hoyt Wilhelm held the Pirates scoreless for the next two innings and Joe Cunningham finally broke it up with his sixth homer of the season in the 11th inning.

Johnny Antonelli pitched a seven-hitter to beat the Braves for the fourth time. 2-0, but Milwaukee gained a split when Gene Conley whipped the Giants for the third time in 10 days, 5-3.

The Dodgers' cut Milwaukee's margin over them to a game-and-a-half when Johnny Podres scattered nine hits and Carl Furillo hit the eighth grand slam homer of his major league career in a 7-2 victory over the Redlegs.

Curt Simmons won his 10th game and rookie Jack Sanford his 14th as the Phillies whipped the Chicago Cubs, 3-2 and 7-1. Grady Hamner's sacrifice fly in the ninth sent over the winning run in the opener and he whacked a two-run double before Ed Bouche exploded a three-run homer when the Phillies kayaked Dick Drott with five runs in the seventh inning of the nightcap.

The Chicago White Sox defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 4-3, and advanced to within 3½ games of first place in the American League when the New York Yankees split with the Detroit Tigers. The Tigers won the opener, 6-5, but the Yankees took the nightcap, 4-3 in 15 innings. Boston outslugged Cleveland 9-8, and the Kansas City Athletics won their first doubleheader of the year, 6-2 and 3-2, in 11 innings over the Washington Senators in the older A. L. games.

Larry Doby singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning for the White Sox and rookie Bill Fischer and Dixie Howell protected the margin over the last two innings.

Mickey Mantle walked and scored on Bill Skowron's triple to gain the Yankees a split after the Tigers won the first game on J.W. Porter's three-run pinch double. Frank Bolling's solo homer and Lou Sclater's late-inning clutch relief pitching, Relief Act Bob Grim pitched the Yankees out of bases-filled jams in both the 14th and 15th innings to pick up his 10th victory compared to three defeats.

Ted Williams had four hits in four tries and raised his batting average to .376 as the Red Sox staged four-run rallies in both the seventh and eighth innings. Williams' hits included his 20th homer and a two-run double while Vic Wertz hit a pair of two-run homers for the Indians.

Alex Kellner pitched a five-hitter and Wally Burgett turned in five shutout relief innings for the Athletics, who snapped the Senators' four-game winning streak.

the Cards have moved to put veteran Murry Dickson on the disabled list.

Banker Steals $22,600, Then Shoots Self

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A banker stole at least $22,600 then shot himself and set fire to the bank records yesterday in a vain attempt to hide his deed, the FBI said.

Authorities lodged embezzlement and larceny charges against Norman Van Arsdale, 41, of suburban Springfield, as he lay in St. Agnes Hospital being treated for a superficial gunshot wound of the shoulder.

Van Arsdale, manager of the Marconi Savings and Loan Association in South Philadelphia, was found crawling from the bank yesterday morning by a passer-by who saw smoke pouring from the institution.

Van Arsdale told investigators he went to the bank to work on some end-of-the-month statements.

He was quoted as saying he was coming up basement stairs in the bank when he was slugged on the head and lost consciousness. When he awoke he saw fire in the vault, crawled to a window and "dropped out onto" the street. He said he didn't know he had been shot until doctors discovered it.

Carl E. Hennrich, agent in charge of the FBI office here, said Van Arsdale went to the bank Saturday night and removed the money from a vault. He then wrapped it in a package and brought it to the home of friends. Hennrich said, telling them it was a surprise for his wife and asked them to keep it over the weekend.

Hennrich said $22,600 had been recovered and that an other $4,000 was missing and may have been burned in the vault fire. In the vault, investigators found a .22-caliber pistol partly melted by fire, from which one shot had been fired.

Caesar, Coca to Team Again on Television

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca reportedly will return to television as a comedy team this fall. But the truth is that the possibility is so remote it's scarcely worth considering.

It seems certain that a large and enthusiastic home audience would greet the return of Caesar and his first TV wife from whom he parted three years ago.

It's equally certain that Caesar and Miss Coca are eager to return as a team. Certain, too, is the fact that their old video landlord, NBC-TV, is interested in providing a home for them again.

You may wonder what is to prevent the return of the comedy team in the fall. The answer lies in the complex nature of TV programming.

First, Caesar and Miss Coca neither have a sponsor nor a well-defined plan of what sort of program they want to do. Secondly, there does not appear to be a time spot on the NBC-TV fall schedule that would appeal to them and a sponsor.

The answer of Caesar fans would be: "Then make a place for them." That's not easy. At the moment it looks impossible.

by the year 2000 we will all be working for the government. But aren't we now?

That it was Samuel Johnson who said, "Were it not for imagination a man would be as happy as in the arms of a chambermaid of an end."

TV season, there possibly will be a spot on NBC-TV which Caesar and Miss Coca and a sponsor would find acceptable. For, as inevitably as autumn changes to winter, there will be program changes as the year comes to an end.
